The program is intended to provide meals to elders that face challenges with maintaining adequate nutrition while residing in their home in the community. Access to the program is typically achieved through referral from the client’s physician or case manager. Direct referrals can be made to the program coordinator by calling the Greenwoods main telephone number (250-537-5561) and selecting the Meals on Wheels extension (233).

The Coordinator will assess the client’s need and accept the client to the program if basic criteria are met. The program is subsidized by Island Health and a small client fee is charged for each meal. The program depends on a dedicated group of volunteers that provide both delivery of the meal and a friendly contact for the clients.

1.C. Volunteer opportunities

Volunteer and Community Resources Salt Spring Society

Everyone has their own reasons for volunteering.....

- Meeting new people and having fun
- Exploring career options & developing skills
- Giving back to the community & helping others
- Volunteers are enhancing the quality of life all around us, every day, in a variety of ways.
- Studies show that volunteers live longer and lead more fulfilling lives.
- The volunteer or “non-profit” sector is one of the three major components of our country’s economy along with the corporate or “for-profit” sector and government.
- The 1998 National Survey on Giving, Participating and Volunteering (NSGVP) in Canada found that volunteers in B.C. contribute 169 million hours each year. This is the equivalent of 88,000 full-time jobs.
- The NSGPV also found a higher percentage of rural British Columbians volunteer compared to volunteers in more densely populated areas.

Where Do I Want To Volunteer?

- Think about your interests. What are you drawn to? Is it theatre? Animals? A cause such as saving the environment or cancer research?
- What existing skills and resources can you bring to the volunteer position?
- What do you want to get from your volunteer experience?
- How much of a commitment can you make in terms of time?
- Do you want to work with others or alone? Indoors or outside? Weekends or evenings?

Check out the volunteer opportunities posted here on the Volunteer Salt Spring website. You will find information about positions available locally, as well as links to national and international opportunities.

2. A. Advance care planning resources

Advance care planning is the process of thinking about and writing down your wishes or instructions for present or future health care treatment in the event you become incapable of deciding for yourself. Your advance care plan should include information for a variety of situations including: hospital care during and after routine surgery, care in the event of an accident, or end-of-life decisions. In British Columbia advance directives, which are legal documents, are a legal option for all capable adults who want to do advance care planning. For information about advance care planning in B.C., including tools to get started making a plan, visit the links below.

- Financial/legal planning

An Enduring Power of Attorney is a legal document for personal planning in British Columbia. It is a way to authorize your personal supporters to manage your financial and legal affairs if you need assistance due to illness, injury and disability.

An Enduring Power of Attorney does not authorize your personal supporters to make health care or personal care decisions. To give authorization for health and personal care decisions you need to make a Representation Agreement. Please select Representation Agreement from the menu. Read the RA Overview page first.

A Representation Agreement is a legal document for personal planning in British Columbia. It is a way to authorize your personal supporters to help you manage your affairs or make decisions on your behalf if you need assistance due to illness, injury or disability.

A Representation Agreement is the only way to authorize someone to assist you or to act on your behalf for health care and personal care matters. It can also cover routine financial affairs and legal matters.

3. D. Federal and Provincial tax credits

The following information describes tax credits that may be available to you when you prepare and submit your annual income tax and benefit return.

Age amount

In addition to the basic personal amount, if you turned 65 during the year (or are older), you may be entitled to claim the age amount, which allows eligible seniors a non-refundable tax credit to reduce their income tax payable. Your eligibility and the amount you can claim are based on your net income.

Pension income amount

If you receive pension income, superannuation, or annuity payments, you may be able to claim the pension income amount, an allowable amount for certain pension incomes. Your qualifying pension income amount will be used in determining the total non-refundable tax credits used to reduce your federal income tax.

Amounts transferred from spouse
Your spouse may be able to transfer to you amounts that he or she qualifies for but does not need to reduce his or her federal income tax to zero. For example: the age amount, pension income amount or the disability amount.

Pension income splitting
You may also want to explore the idea of splitting your eligible pension income with your spouse or common-law partner. Using income splitting, your spouse or common-law partner may be able to transfer up to half of their pension income to you for income tax purposes.

For more information about pension income splitting, please refer to your income tax guide or call the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA). Phone (toll-free): 1-800-959-8281 Website: www.cra-arc.gc.ca/tx/ndvds/tpcs/pnsn-split/menu-eng.html

Canada Pension Plan (CPP) Contributions
As of January 1, 2012, the rules for contributing to the CPP have changed. The changes apply to employees and self-employed individuals 60 to 70 years of age who are receiving a CPP or Quebec Pension Plan (QPP) retirement pension. If you are under 65, you will now have to contribute to the CPP if you are receiving a CPP or QPP retirement pension and working. If you are 65 to 70 years of age, you will also have to contribute, unless you elect to stop contributing to the CPP. For more information on how to make this election, or on CPP contributions generally, refer to your income tax guide, call the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA), or visit the CRA or Service Canada websites.

Other Amounts
You may also be able to claim a disability amount, an amount for medical expenses, and expenses for an attendant or full-time care in a nursing home. For more information, please refer to your income tax guide, call the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA), or visit the CRA website.

Phone (toll-free): 1-800-959-8281 Website: www.cra-arc.gc.ca/E/pub/tp/it519r2-consolid/README.html

Goods and Services Tax/Harmonized Sales Tax Credit
The goods and services tax/harmonized sales tax (GST/HST) credit is a tax-free quarterly payment that helps individuals and families with low and modest incomes offset all or part of the GST/HST they pay. To receive GST/HST credit payments, you must file your income tax and benefit return and complete the goods and services tax/harmonized sales tax (GST/HST) credit application area on the first page of the return, even if you received the credit last year. If you move, inform the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) immediately to ensure that payments of your GST/HST credit are not disrupted, even if you use direct deposit and your bank account does not change.

For more information, refer to your income tax guide, call CRA, or visit the CRA website. Phone (toll-free): 1-800-959-1953 Website: www.cra-arc.gc.ca/bnfts/gsthst/menu-eng.html
BC Harmonized Sales Tax (HST) credit

The BC HST Credit is a non-taxable refundable payment to help low-income individuals and families offset the impact of the sales taxes they pay. The payment is combined with the quarterly payment of the federal GST/HST credit. The provincial government provides the BC HST Credit to help lower income individuals and families with the HST they pay. The maximum BC HST Credit is $230 per family member. The maximum credit is reduced by four per cent of net family income above $20,000 for individuals and above $25,000 for families. The government will eliminate the BC HST Credit of up to $230 per family member with the elimination of the HST. The final quarterly BC HST payment will be issued in January 2013.

To get this credit, apply for the GST/HST credit on the first page of your tax return. Website: www.sbr.gov.bc.ca/individuals/Income_Taxes/Personal_Income_Tax/tax_credits/hstc.htm

For more information, refer to your income tax guide, call the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) and ask for booklet RC4210, GST/HST Credit, or visit the CRA website. Phone (toll-free): 1-800-959-1953 Website: www.cra.gc.ca

3.E. Federal Resources

If you are a spouse or common-law partner of someone receiving both Old Age Security (OAS) and the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS), you may qualify for a benefit called the Allowance. The Allowance provides extra money to eligible low-income individuals aged 60 to 64. The benefit you receive will be based on the combined incomes of you and your spouse or common-law partner. If your spouse or common-law partner dies (or has died), and depending on your income, you may receive a benefit called the Allowance for the Survivor until you reach age 65. You must apply to receive the Allowance or the Allowance for the Survivor. Whether you are a new applicant or you already receive these benefits, your benefits will be renewed automatically each year, as long as you remain eligible and you file an annual income tax return on time. If you do not file your return on time, or if further information is needed, you will receive a renewal form in the mail. As your annual income may change from year to year, you must provide your income each year either by completing an application form or by filing your income tax return.

For more information about the Allowance or about the Allowance for the Survivor, contact Service Canada, or visit their website. • Allowance for the survivor

For persons aged between 60 and 64 who wish to apply for the Allowance or Allowance for the Survivor. The Allowance is a non-taxable monthly benefit paid to the spouse or common-law partner of someone who is receiving the Old Age Security pension and who qualifies for the Guaranteed Income Supplement. The Allowance for the Survivor is a non-taxable monthly benefit paid to a surviving spouse or common-law partner who has low income. Either benefit may be paid until you turn 65 years of age. It will then be replaced with an Old Age Security pension, if you qualify. Forms included: Information Sheet for the Allowance or Allowance for the Survivor and Application for the Allowance or Allowance for the Survivor.

• Canadian Pension Plan

Canada Pension Plan (CPP) The Canada Pension Plan (CPP) provides a retirement pension and other benefits for those who have contributed to the plan through paid employment in Canada. The amount of CPP benefit is determined by the contributions you made during the time you were employed. The CPP is adjusted for inflation every January to keep up with increases in the cost of living. You must apply to receive CPP benefits; retirement benefits do not begin automatically unless you were in receipt of CPP disability benefits when you turned 65. Apply at least six months before you want your CPP pension to begin (normally the month after your 65th birthday). If you apply for CPP retirement benefits to begin early (age 60-64), you will receive a reduced pension; if you apply after age 65 and as late as age 70, you will receive an increased pension. If you apply for your pension to begin at age 65, you will receive your full pension amount with no increase or reduction. If you have lived or worked in another country that has a social security agreement with Canada, or if you are the surviving spouse or common-law partner of someone who has lived or worked in another country having a social security agreement with Canada, under this agreement you may be eligible for benefits from Canada or from the other country. If you have contributed to the CPP for the necessary number of years, the CPP also offers a one-time lump-sum death benefit to your estate upon your death. Furthermore, your spouse or common-law partner may be eligible to receive a monthly survivor pension. Dependent children up to the age of 25 may also be eligible for benefits (those between 18 and 25 must be attending school full-time). Please note that changes to the CPP are being phased in between 2011 and 2016. More information on these changes, and applications for CPP benefits, are available from any Service Canada office and on the Service Canada website. For more information about the CPP, contact Service Canada. Phone (English, toll-free, Canada & USA): 1-800-277-9914 Phone (French, toll-free, Canada & USA): 1-800-277-9915 Phone (Deaf/hearing-impaired, toll-free): 1-800-255-4786 Website: www.servicecanada.gc.ca/eng/sc/cpp/retirement/canadapension.shtml

• CPP Disability

Canada Pension Plan (CPP) provides disability benefits to people who have made enough contributions to the CPP and who are disabled and cannot work at any job on a regular basis.
Benefits may also be available to their dependent children.

- CPP disability benefit
  A taxable monthly payment that is available to people who have contributed to the CPP and who are not able to work regularly because of a disability.

- Children's benefit
  A monthly benefit for dependent children (under age 18 or between 18 and 25 and attending school full time) of someone receiving a CPP disability benefit.

- Other disability resources
  Links to resources for people with disabilities.

What we mean by "disability"

To qualify for a disability benefit under the Canada Pension Plan (CPP), a disability must be both "severe" and "prolonged", and it must prevent you from being able to work at any job on a regular basis.

- Severe means that you have a mental or physical disability that regularly stops you from doing any type of substantially gainful work.

- Prolonged means that your disability is long-term and of indefinite duration or is likely to result in death.

Both the "severe" and "prolonged" criteria must be met simultaneously at the time of application. There is no common definition of "disability" in Canada. Even if you qualify for a disability benefit under other government programs or from private insurers, you may not necessarily qualify for a CPP disability benefit.

Our medical adjudicators will determine, based on your application and supporting documentation, whether your disability is both severe and prolonged. See http://www.esdc.gc.ca/en/cpp/disability/after_applying.page

- Employment Insurance

  EI Compassionate Care Benefits
  Compassionate care benefits are Employment Insurance (EI) benefits paid to people who have to be away from work temporarily to provide care or support to a family member who is gravely ill and who has a significant risk of death. A maximum of 26 weeks of compassionate care benefits may be paid to eligible people.

  Care or support of a family member means:
  - providing psychological or emotional support; or
  - arranging for care by a third party; or
  - directly providing or participating in the care.

  You can receive compassionate care benefits for a variety of family members—both yours and those of your spouse or common-law partner

4.B. Consenting to Health Care

What is informed consent?

The Health Care Consent Act sets out the legal requirements for consent. A health care provider must get consent before giving you health care. The law says a provider must give you information about:

- What condition they want to treat (your diagnosis);
- What health care they want to give you (the proposed treatment);
- How it may help you (the benefits);
- How it may harm you (the risks); and
- Other health care you could choose instead (possible alternatives).

The health care provider must also allow you to ask questions and get answers. You have the right to be involved as much as possible in plans and decisions about your health care. When you agree to health care, you are giving consent to that specific health care only. The health care provider can only give the health care that you agreed to, and must specifically get consent for a new or different treatment.

Your decisions about health care must be voluntary. No one can pressure you or force you to decide in a particular way, or deliberately give you wrong information to influence your decision.

Do I have a right to refuse consent?

Yes, you have the right to refuse consent. As a rule, as long as you are capable, you have the right to make your own decisions about health care. You can refuse or withdraw (stop) consent to health care for any reason, including religious or moral reasons. You have this right even if your decision puts your health or life in danger.

You must also complete an orientation before you sign the CSIL agreement.

How much funding do I get?

Your Case Manager will work with you to determine the amount of service you will receive based on your personal care needs. As per Island Health Vision, Purpose and Values.

We believe that each resident should be encouraged and helped to attain the highest level of ability and self-care that is possible for him/her to achieve.

We believe that resident participation in activities assists them in maintaining social, physical, psychological, cognitive and spiritual wellbeing.

We accept each resident as an individual and strive to reflect this on care plans.

We recognize the value of a cooperative group effort, including residents, families, staff and volunteers.

We strive for a safe, homelike environment to which the resident and family feel a sense of belonging.

The environment on the unit will promote sharing and pursuing knowledge related to the continuing care of the elderly.

As members of the palliative care team at Lady Minto Hospital, all Residential Care staff participate in a palliative approach to end of life care.

- Physiotherapy services

Physiotherapists work with clients of all ages and with a wide range of health conditions. Whether it’s pain management and rehabilitation from an acute injury like a sprained ankle, or management of chronic conditions such as diabetes or heart disease, a physiotherapist can help. But physiotherapy is not limited to rehabilitation of injury and the effects of disease or disability. A physiotherapist also provides education and advice for health promotion, disease and injury prevention.

A physiotherapist will assess you using detailed history-taking as well as specific physical tests and measures, such as flexibility or range of motion. He or she will then analyze the assessment findings and use clinical reasoning to establish a diagnosis. Together, you will explore your current abilities and functional needs so the physiotherapist can plan treatments that are consistent with your goals and general health status, and which incorporate approaches and techniques supported by the best evidence available.

8.G. Support with Advance Care planning
Something We all Need to Think About
None of us knows what tomorrow will bring. A health crisis may affect you or a family member at any time.

Advance care planning allows you to have a say in the health care you will receive if you are unable to speak for yourself. It is a way to reflect on your values, beliefs and wishes so that you can make your own health care decisions. By discussing and documenting your wishes with your loved ones, health care team and family physician, they will be better able to act on your behalf.

Salt Spring Hospice offers you:
– Our extensive hospice library – pick up the “how to” booklet “My Voice” and ask for assistance with building your advance care plan can help in this process. “My Voice” is available at our hospice office.
– Our trained volunteers are available to do presentations to community groups and small gatherings.

Our trained Hospice Volunteers are available to supplement the efforts of family and friends with a vigil for the dying person. Our vigil volunteers can be called out to be present during the last days and hours of life. Usually recommended by nursing staff.

http://saltspringhospice.org/services/vigil-services/

8.I. Volunteer visiting

Volunteers offer their time to visit with individuals in need of someone to talk to about their experiences, share memories, read, and provide a kind presence. Often it is difficult for individuals to share their feelings, thoughts, and spiritual philosophy with loved ones and friends in light of their situation. Companion Volunteers offer a confidential and kind hearted presence where the person lives: home, hospital, or other residence in the community.

Our specially trained volunteers provide emotional and practical support to individuals living with a life threatening illness and their families. Services are delivered in the individual’s home, in Lady Minto Hospital, and long term care facilities

Anyone can make a referral to Hospice — you, a family member, caregiver, friend, physician or other health care professional. When you contact Hospice, a coordinator will arrange to meet with you and/or your loved one to discuss the type of volunteer that will best suit your needs and establish a suitable visiting schedule.

All our volunteers are screened (police check, interview), and must have completed the provincial hospice training program before being matched one-on-one with an individual in the community. Each of our volunteers also signs a confidentiality agreement.

How Can a Volunteer Help Me or my Loved One?
• Provide respite to ease the demands of care
• Provide emotional support
• Be a compassionate presence, a listening ear

To find out more about our Volunteer Visiting Program, please call us at 250-537-2770. All our programs and services are offered free of charge to families.

11. SS Literacy

In 2005 Elma Rubright recognized the need for free literacy help. She envisioned a place where people could learn to read, write, do math or whatever it was they needed to be happy in life. As her excitement and vision grew, she was joined by a dedicated group of volunteers and a grassroots movement on the Gulf Islands began. The incredible community need was tapped and only surpassed by the community involvement of volunteers dedicated to supporting these learners achieve their goals. The charitable society, officially incorporated in 2007, has grown steadily to meet the literacy needs of the community ever since. Elma left us a legacy of community learning that has touched the lives of hundreds of individuals and their families throughout the Southern Gulf Islands.

The society now operates the Elma Rubright Literacy Centre in the heart of Ganges on Salt Spring Island. We work with over a hundred learners every year. Our philosophy is simple. The learner is in charge. You decide what you learn, how you learn and whom you learn it with. We encourage creative learning opportunities and collaborative teaching.

We are dedicated to the enhancement of literacy and community education on Salt Spring and the Southern Gulf Islands. We hope you will join us!
